H.E.A.T, the Swedish powerhouse bringing 80s-inspired hard rock into the now, continues to raise the bar with their eighth studio album "Welcome to the Future", released in April 2025 via earMUSIC. Fueled by the soaring vocals of Kenny Leckremo and the band's signature blend of melodic hooks and modern muscle, this album marks a new high point in their already explosive discography. In October 2025 the band will go on a tour that sees them play 16 cities all over Europe! Go get some H.E.A.T.!

Lead singles "Disaster," "Running to You," and "Bad Time for Love" have been met with thunderous approval from fans and critics alike. Rock Hard called the album "just flat-out fantastic," Metal Hammer hailed it as "the band at their very best," and Hardline declared: "They do what they do best—crafting hits—making Welcome to the Future their strongest album to date."

Chart-wise, Welcome to the Future made impressive strides, securing top positions on iTunes Rock & Metal charts across multiple countries: #1 in Italy, #2 in the Netherlands, Finland, and Switzerland, #3 in Germany and the UK, #4 in Austria and Belgium, #5 in Australia, and #7 in France. Rock radio has embraced the new era with open arms, with "Disaster" and "Running to You" added to A-lists including Planet Rock (UK), and stations across Europe giving H.E.A.T heavy rotation.

Fresh off a successful tour through Latin America, H.E.A.T shows no signs of slowing down. In May, they'll be filming a live music video in Madrid before hitting the road again—this time for a high-voltage tour across Europe and Japan throughout summer and fall 2025. Expect new anthems, classic firestarters, and the kind of stage presence that turns first-time listeners into lifelong fans.

With Welcome to the Future, H.E.A.T isn't just honoring their roots—they're proving that hard rock still has something to say. And they're saying it louder, prouder, and more electrified than ever!
